Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.

ROMULUS RIGGS,

AT his office, next doo below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

Valuable Family Medicines.

JUST received direct from the proprietors, the following valuable Medicines, all of which have been in use for a number of years past, in almost every part of the United States; have been highly patronised by people of the first respectability; and approved by those who have had occasion to make use of them, for the cure of those disorders, for which they are severally calculated.

Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills,

Universally known and used throughout the United States as a Family Medicine. The fame of these pills has become so great that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this, the proprietors have procured a Stereotype Label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Billious Pills," and on the end of the Label the words, "Samuel Lee, patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said Label on them, the purchaser may be apprised that they are counterfeit.

Dr. Thompson's Celebrated Eye-Water:

For the cure of inflamed and sore eyes of almost every description. This valuable preparation comes highly recommended from the most respectable sources. Price 50 and 25 cents a bottle.

Dr. Rawson's Genuine Itch Ointment:

A certain and safe cure for that disagreeable complaint, as well as other eruptions of the skin. Price 37½ cents a box.

The National Register

IS a paper which is published, every Saturday, at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, and each number contains sixteen pages octavo, in small but very legible type. It makes two volumes in the year; and every volume is accompanied with a copious Index. The price per annum is five dollars, payable in advance. The Public Documents, both foreign and domestic; the proceedings of Congress, and authentic news of every description, are regularly inserted therein, and accompanied by critical and explanatory remarks. Its value is also enhanced by occasional reviews of literary works; and all its sentiments are decidedly American, independent of all party considerations. For this work, which is well established, regularly published, and transmitted weekly to subscribers by the mail, the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

LAWRENCE, WILSON & Co.

W. & W. Hannon,

CABINET-MAKERS,

RESPECTFULLY inform their friends and the public in general, that they still continue to carry on the above business in all its various branches, at the same old stand, Royal-st. between King and Prince, and have now on hand a handsome assortment of cabinet ware, all of their own manufacture; consisting of side-boards, secretarys and book cases, bureaus, ladies' work stands, mahogany and stained wood bedsteads, cradles, sophas and easy-chairs, one handsome mahogany writing desk, &c. &c. Also, on hand a large quantity of St. Domingo and Bay Mahogany, in log and boards, and cut to any dimensions at a short notice—four or five thousand feet of elegant veneers for bureaus and secretarys, all of which they are determined to sell lower than the same quality can be had in the district. All kinds of upholstry work done as usual.

They would rent for one or more years a very excellent shop and yard for a carpenter, wheelwright, or blacksmith, situated on Royal-street, between Prince and Duke street. Feb 11 tf

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1819.

REPLY to the STRICTURES on the REPORT of the COMMITTEE of the SENATE.

From the National Intelligencer.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having recently seen, in the National Intelligencer, strictures of an erroneous character, upon a report made by a select committee of the senate, on the subject of the Seminole war, and being the only member of that committee now at the seat of government, it seems to be a duty I owe to the senate of the United States, to the committee of which I was a member, and to my own character, to offer some remarks on the strictures. In the first place it is necessary to observe, that, on applying to the editors of the Natiopal Intelligencer, I was informed by them, in writing, that they were authorised to give up, as the authors of the strictures, the names of two officers of the army of the U. States. Could I have brought myself to believe that those young men* were the real, as they were the ostensible, authors of those strictures, they would have been treated with silent pity and commiseration, and their production would have remained forever unnoticed by me. But charity for those men, and the peculiar circumstances of the case, forbid this conclusion: we must look to a higher source for their author. Those young men were aids to general Jackson, or belonged to his military family. Some of the documents annexed to the strictures, were, it seems, furnished from his own private bureau, for they could not be obtained in the war office. The personal invectives indulged in, in the strictures, correspond entirely with his previous observations in the public taverns and ball-rooms at Washington;—for it is a fact notorious, and cannot be denied, that on those occasions he was vociferous in his imprecations, and violent in his threats of personal vengeance, even to cutting off the ears of some of the members of the select committee, and this while the subject was before the senate; and some members of the house of representative who dared to animadvert upon his conduct, or even to doubt his infallibility, were menaced in nearly a similar manner. Under these circumstances, there seems to be no unfairness in considering that gen. Jackson is the real author of those strictures, or at least that he approved of, and assented to the publication;† and that those gentlemen (with more gallantry than prudence) were induced to step forward and take upon themselves a responsibility that the general himself felt unwilling to encounter. And it is for him to decide how far it was just and proper for age and experience to take advantage of the exuberant ardor of youthful feelings and attachments, and by this means to induce the officers in question to hazard their reputation and future prospects in the army, by acts of inconsiderate rashness. As citizens of the United States, they were entitled to equal privileges with all others. As military officers, they were held strictly subordinate to the civil power. An act of congress declares, that every officer shall be cashiered, or otherwise punished by court martial, who shall even speak contemptuous or disrespectful words of the congress of the United States or of the legislatures or governors of any of the states of the union. And, by rules and regulations established in the army of the United States, the officers are forbidden, under like penalties, from publishing in newspapers or otherwise, observations disrespectful of each other.

And it is believed that this is the first instance in which a military officer, whose conduct was the subject of investigation before the congress of the United States, has ventured to charge that body with a violation of the constitution, and with exercising inquisitorial power.‡ Or that a committee of either branch of the national legislature has been charged with the "most wanton and studied disregard to truth," and the most "foul" and "dishonest motives." But how far is it either for the honor or interest of the nation thus to submit to military dragooning or newspaper chastisement, by military officers who, it is believed, visited the seat of government for that purpose; and how far a senate of the United States should be subject to this kind of discipline, for the conscientious discharge of official duties, imposed by the unanimous voice of that body, is for the proper authorities to determine.

I shall now state faithfully the proceedings had in the senate and before the committee, on this subject, pledging myself, and appealing to others, for the correctness of every fact stated.

On the 18th November, 1818, the President's message to both houses of Congress was received. In this message the President refers to the Seminole war, and promises to present to congress the documents respecting it.

On the 4th December, 1818, this volume of documents was received in manuscript & sent to the printer. On this day (and not on the 18th, as stated erroneously in the strictures) the resolution was offered in the senate, for raising the committee on this subject—it was considered on the 17th, and postponed from time to time, until the 18th Dec. when it was modified and enlarged, on motion of Mr. Eaton, and unanimously adopted. This delay was occasioned by the senate's not having previously received the documents from the printer.

There had, however, been made, in the senate, a call on the President, for further information on this subject, and this resolution offered on the 16th December, was agreed to on the 17th, and the call was complied with on the 28th December, by message, and another volume of documents furnished.

These documents were not received from the printer until the 1st or 2d Feb. 1819. But a copy of them had been received by each member of the Senate, thro' the medium of the house of representatives, to whom they were first sent, on the 27th or 28th Jan. and on the day they were received, the committee were called together. At this meeting all the members being present, Mr. King made a motion that the committee should ask the senate to discharge them from the further consideration of the subject. The question on the motion was put, and, four members voting in the negative, it was of course lost.

And, at this time, the committee ordered, under the authority of the resolution of the senate, that the aids of General Jackson, and such other persons as the chairman might think necessary, should be summoned before the committee for examination.

This order was complied with, witnesses were summoned, and the examination proceeded from day to day, as the witnesses appeared, subject only to the delay and interruption that arose from the indispensable necessity the members of the committee were under, of attending to their official duties.

Thus the enquiry was prosecuted, until the committee were told by the chairman that he knew of no other evidence that it was in his power to obtain. And at this time, as on former occasions, particular enquiry was made of the members of the committe generally, and of Mr. Eaton, particularly, whether it was known that further testimony should be obtained, or whether they wished that other witnesses should be summoned, and the answers to these enquiries were in the negative.

The testimony being thus considered as closed, the nature of the report to be made to the senate was then to be discussed, and all the points involved by the conduct of gen. Jackson, on which there could be any doubt, were distinctly stated in writing, and seperate questions taken on each of them. On the first point, of raising and organizing the volunteers, the unanimous voice of the committee was, that it was illegal.—The second point, the right to pursue the enemy into Florida, was decided unanimously in the affirmative. And on several other points, the committee were divided, three disapproving the conduct of the commanding general, and two justifying or excusing it.

The decision of the committee being thus had, the chairman was ordered to prepare a report, in conformity to the principles established by the committee. About this time, however, another circumstance took place, which necessarily occasioned some delay in obtainining further evidence.

Mr. Eaton informed the chairman of the committee that he had heard General Jackson say at his lodgings, that after he had left the Floridas, he had issued an order to General Gaines, to take possession of St. Augustine, and that this order had been countermanded by the department of war.

The chairman having ascertained this to be the fact, by a letter dated February 8, called on the department for this correspondence, which was furnished on the evening of the 12th of the same month.

*Those officers were examined by the committee; they discovered (but more especially one of them) talents; and much energy of character, that if tempered with prudence, cannot fail to make them useful members of society; and a tenderness for them, bordering on paternal regard, has induced me to withhold their names from the public, knowing that "public rebuke hardens the heart," and believing that, when they have numbered my years, they will look back on the unguarded follies of youth with sorrow and remorse.

† If the reader entertains any doubts as to the authorship of the strictures, they will be removed on reading the deposition of Col. Orr, in which it will be seen, that General Jackson obtained from him a fact which he asked leave to make use of, and that the fact is made use of in the strictures.

‡ See the last paragraph of the strictures.

ALEXANDRIA:
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1819.

A great orator, in the last century, speaking of the effects of trade in narrowing the mind, and illiberalizing, said, that a merchant's desk was his altar—his ledger his bible—and money his God. To this severe general sentence of reprobation, men of more cool temper and less ardent imagination opposed a decisive practical contradiction, by pointing to the character long maintained by the body of British merchants for private charity and public munificence, not equalled, certainly not surpassed, by any body or class of men in England, or any other part of the world. That there are certain callings which have a tendency to contract the sentiments, where they are not early expanded by liberal education, is certain; and it is probable that the habit of trucking, and bartering, and dealing in the lower departments of traffic, imparts a selfishness to the heart, injurious to the more exalted feelings, and subversive of generous sentiment in the human bosom, where it has not been previously fortified by an enlarged and liberal education.—But men who have had the advantage of such a training, and adopted liberal sentiments previous to their being engaged in any particular profession, will carry those sentiments along with them through life, and perhaps there is no profession in which they can be exercised with more advantage or utility than in that of a merchant. In this profession, a man, while he is augmenting his own private fortune, will enjoy the agreeable reflection, that he is likewise increasing the riches and power of his country, and giving bread to thousands of his countrymen.—Of all professions, his is in its nature the most independent;—the merchant does not, like the soldier, receive wages from his sovereign; nor like the lawyer and physician, from his fellow citizens. His wealth often flows from foreign sources, and he is under no obligations to those from whom it is derived. The habit which he is in of circulating millions, makes him lay less stress on a few dollars than the proprietors of the largest estates; and the consequence is, that in most countries, particularly in those where commerce is not considered degrading, the commercial part of the inhabitants give the most exalted proofs of generosity and public spirit.

In countries where nobody who has the smallest claim to the title of a gentleman, can engage in commerce without being thought to have demeaned himself, fewer examples of this nature will be found; and in every country it must be acknowledged that those who have not had the advantage of a liberal education; who have been bred from their infancy to trade; who have been taught to consider money as the most valuable of all things, and to value themselves and others in proportion to the quantity they possess; who are continually revolving in their minds, to the exclusion of all other ideas, the various means of increasing their stock—self-interest becomes the constant, and often sole object of regard—money swells in their imagination—is rated beyond its real worth—and at length, by an inversion of the christian precept, is considered as the one thing needful to be sought with the most unremitting ardor, that all other things may be added to it.

In commercial towns, where every body finds employment, and is agitated by the bustle of business, the minds of the inhabitants are apt to be so much engrossed with the affairs of this world, as too often to forget that there is another; and neither the true religion nor false ones, have such a hold on the minds, as in places where there is more poverty and less worldly occupation. In the first, they consider the remonstrances of the clergy as interruptions to business; and without daring to despise the ceremonies of religion, like the speculative sceptic or infidel, the hurried trader hurries them over as fast as possible, that he may return to occupations more congenial with the habits of his mind.—The preachers may cry aloud and spare not; they may lift up their voices like trumpets, proclaiming the nothingness of this world, and all which it contains; it is in vain. Men who have been trained to the pursuit of money from their childhood—who have bestowed infinite pains on the acquisition of it—and who derive all their importance from it, must naturally have a partiality for this world, where riches procure so many flattering distinctions.

Norfolk, March 19.

THE GENERYL ARTIGAS.

The statement which we gave in our last respecting this privateer, though furnished by the commanding officer, is, in its most essential particulars, contradicted by the deposition of four of the crew, as delivered by them before a magistrate upon oath. We have obtained a copy of this deposition, an extract from which is subjoined. It is the opinion of the deponents that notwithstanding they took no prizes, and in the despite of the poverty of the vessels they boarded the privateer contrived to bring in between two and three hundred thousand dollars in cash and merchandize, which were very cleverly convey'd from her, as she lay in Severn River, to Baltimore. By what "mighty magic" all this treasure was collected will be better explained in the extract below. Presuming the deposition of these men to be correct, (they having sworn to it) it remains for the officer from whom we had the statement which was published in our last, to explain his motives for representing the facts in a light so entirely different from the true one. It it is no dishonor to an American citizen to serve under the flag of General Artigas, there surely should be none in the avowal of every legal act performed under that flag. But perhaps the declaration that "no prizes had been taken" was necessary to account for the scant appearance of the privateer when she was first visited by the revenue officers in Severn River; tho' if a little better look out had been kept in a certain quarter, there is no doubt that the discovery of a very abundant harvest of prize money wo'ld have been made, without the information of the crew.—With respect to the mutiny which is said to have taken place among the crew, they have also their own story to tell, which is, that Capt. Ford after shipping off all the money, &c. to Baltimore, intimated to them as he had no further occasion for their services, they were at liberty to go where they pleased; but they no doubt secured at least some share of the booty, as those of them who have found their way to this town are said to be pretty flush of money.

Extract from the affidavit of four of the mariners, lately belonging to the privateer schooner General Artigas, commanded by Capt. Henry H. Ford, made before an Alderman of the Borough of Norfolk, on the 16th inst.

The deponents state, that "they sailed from Baltimore on the 7th or 8th of October last, and proceeded down the bay, where they took on board a number of men and six 18lb. cannon. They left the capes some time in said month, and proceeded on a cruize. The first capture they made was at the Isle of May, where they cut out a Portuguese brig partly laden with dry goods and rum a portion of which they took on board the privateer, manned the prize and sent her off. On or about the 1st of December, they captured a large ship said to be from Liverpool bound to the Brazils, with an assorted cargo, a considerable part of which they took on board the privateer, and manned the ship with a prize crew: at the same time most of the officers of the privateer, being dissatisfied, left her and went on board the prize, and these deponents have been informed that said prize has arrived at Baltimore during the same month, off Pernambuco, they captured a Portuguese government brig called the Gaviam, from Rio Janeiro bound to Pernambuco, from which they took a large quantity of money in boxes. Early in the month of Jan. they captured the Portuguese brig Maranham Packet, from Bahai, with slaves, whom they put on board the Gaviam, which vessel they manned and ordered to sail in company, but they afterwards lost sight of her in a chase. The Guineaman was given up to the Portuguese prisoners. They next captured a vessel laden with fish oil, money and coffee—one keg of the money contained 2,176 dollars—they also took a considerable sum from the prisoners. Eight days after they took a Portuguese ship laden with timber and money, the latter of which was brought on board the privateer. They then proceeded to St Domingo, and on the coast they obtained a supply of water. From thence they proceeded for the Capes of Virginia, and took a pilot 10 or 12 days since and put into Severn River, having on board all the specie and merchandize they had taken from the different prizes. The next evening the captain left the privateer in a pilot boat, supposed for Baltimore, and took with him all the prize goods and money. These deponents then left the privateer and proceeded to N. York, from whence they continued on to Norfolk."

Charleston, March, 17.

Arrived—British brig James Stewart Lester, Kingston, (Ja.) 13 days. Rum and Pimento. In distress, bound to St. John's, (N. B.)—being short of provisions and water, and having encountered a very heavy gale from N. N. E. on the 25th ult. off Cape Antonia, in which she lost her fore-top-mast, and received other injuries. On the 3d inst. in lat. 27, 29, long. 77, 29, in the gulph steam, the James Stewart was boarded by a piratical schr. commanded by a Captain Beatty, belonging to New-York; Captain Lester was taken from his vessel by force, and detained on board the pirate several hours. A Spanish brig from the coast of Africa, with 165 slaves on board, was in company, a prize to the schr. captured on the 28th Feb. and a prize master put on board, who called himself Lake, and also stated that he belonged to New-York. During the detention of captain L. on board the pirate, the desperadoes commenced plundering his vessel of almost every valuable article they could find; broke open the hatches, stove a part of the cargo of rum, stole from out of the cabin nearly the whole of the furniture, manned our boat and took the whole of our water except a few gallons, and shoved off for the pirate; they then sent captain L. on board, and after overhauling every part of the brig in search of specie, and not finding any, threatened Mr. Kirk, a passenger, that if he did not inform them where he had secreted the money, they would put him to death—at the same time having a poignard at his breast; Mr. K. repeatedly declared to them that there was no money on board, and after another diligent and unsuccessful search, they consented to spare his life. They then began to plunder the captain and crew of their clothes, which they did so effectually as not to leave a single man an article of clothing, except what he had on his back. While captain L. was on board the pirate, he was informed by captain Beatty, that he intended to put on board his vessel, 8 Spanish seamen, belonging to the captured brig, which captain L. was compelled to receive, and has bro't them into this port.

☞By Mr. Kirk, we learn that the pirates intended to smuggle the slaves either into Georgia, or South Carolina.

Alex'a. Common Council.

MARCH 13th, 1819.

The act fixing the salaries of the officers of the corporation for the present year, was returned by the mayor, with his objections, in writing.

The council proceeded to reconsider the same: a motion was made to strike out the words "six hundred and fifty dollars," from the first section, and insert in lieu thereof the words "seven hundred & fifty dollars."

The ayes and noes being called for, were as follows:

Ayes. Messrs. Keith, Swift, Sandford, Hooe—4. Noes, Messrs. Kinsey, J. C. Vowell, Keene, Mandeville, Bryan, Ramsay, Longden, T. Vowell, Gird, Rhodes—10.

It was then moved to retain the words "six hundred and fifty dollars"; and the question being taken on the motion, it was carried.

A motion was made to strike out the third section, which was carried. The bill was then ordered to be sent to the mayor for his signature.

On balloting for an inspector of fish, Levi Talbott was duly elected.

Resolved, That the laws and orders of the common council be published in one of the newspapers in Alexandria; and that sealed proposals for publishing the same be sent to the president of council, to be opened and decided upon at the next meeting of the council.

Leave was granted to bring in a bill to repeal an act, entitled "an act to establish a vaccine institution in the town of Alexandria."

On balloting for trustees of the poor house, the following gentlemen were duly elected, viz: Reuben Johnston, Guy Atkinson, Anthony Crease, Amos Alexander.

On balloting for a physician to the poor house, Thomas Semmes was re-elected.

Mr. Keene, from the committee, to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill making provision for the debt of the corporation which was read a first time, and laid on the table.

On balloting for collectors for the present year, J. C. Mandell was elected for the northern and John H. Phillips for the southern district.

Ordered, That Messrs. J. C. Vowell and Swift be a committee to bring in a bill to repeal an act, entitled "an act to authorise the payment of the salary of the superintendant of pumps," passed the 6th January, 1816. Extract from the minutes.

Teste, I. P. THOMPSON, C. C.

March 20, 1819.

Ordered, That Matthew Robinson, Alexander McKenzie, and Reuben Johnston, be commissioners to hold an election at A. Rhodes's tavern, on the 2nd day of April next, for a member to serve in the common council of Alexandria, for the first ward, in the place of Thomas Sanford, resigned.

A copy.

Notice.

☞The inhabitants of Alexandria will take notice, that the subscribers have been appointed assessors for the present year, agreeably to the laws of the corporation.

"The said assessors shall, immediately after their appointment, proceed to value the houses and lots within the limits of the corporation, and to demand from the masters and mistresses of every family, lists of all male tytheables belonging to, or residing in their respective families, and also from every owner of taxable property, a list of such property. And if any master or mistress of a family, or any owner of taxable property, shall neglect or refuse to give in a list of all male tytheables belonging to, or residing in his or her family, or of his or her taxable property, within five days after demand made thereof by any assessor, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars. And if any person whatsoever, shall wilfully omit or misrepresent in the list given in, any tytheable or any taxable property, or shall in any other manner conceal the same from the knowledge of the assessors, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay double the amount of the tax imposed on each tytheable or taxable property. Every merchant, shopkeeper, mechanic, or other person, having in his or her service or employment any clerk, journeyman, apprentice, or assistant, shall render an account of the same in his or her list of tytheables, and shall be accountable for the capitation tax hereby imposed, in like manner and under the same penalties, as if such clerk, journeyman, apprentice, or assistant, were a member of his or her family."

Negro Edmond,

as a runaway. The negro, on examination, says he was formerly the property of William Johnson, of Gloucester county, Virginia, and sold by said Johnson to some negro trader, the man's name he knows not. Edmond is about 21 years old, 5 feet 4 inches high, strong and well made—his cloathing an old mixed country pair of pantaloons, an old roundabout jacket, and an old wool hat. The owner, if any, is requested to come forward, prove his property, pay charges and take him away, otherwise he will be dealt with according to law.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very tertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

PROPOSALS

BY JOSEPH M. SANDERSON,
for publishing by subscription,
A BIOGRAPHY OF THE SIGNERS
TO THE
Declaration of Independence,
ACCOMPANIED WITH PLATES;

To which will be annexed a history of the proceedings of congress during the passage of the law, and the Declaration itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures.

By PAUL ALLEN, Esq.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT seems a little surprising that amongst so many subjects as have been presented for American Biography, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to the Declaration of Independence have been overlooked or disregarded. The eyes of thousands have dwelt with rapture upon the document that announced to the world that "these United Colonies were, and of right ought to be, free, sovereign, and independent states;" while we are better acquainted with the handwriting than with the characters of many of those illustrious men who have added their signatures to that instrument. The founders of the only remaining republic on the globe, have, with a few splendid exceptions, gone to their graves, and it behoves a generous posterity, sensible of their obligations, to preserve their fame. The longer we neglect the payment of so sacred a debt, the more difficult does the payment become.—Traits of individual character are fugitive and evanescent; and if they are not snatched by the hand of the Biographic Muse, at an early season, from the cold grasp of death, will soon partake of the oblivion of the body.—It is not the object of the present attempt, to deal in that profusion of indiscriminate and unsparing panegyric, so often and so falsely dignified with the name of Biography: we wish to represent the characters as they were; they stand in need of no panegyric; and we earnestly solicit from the surviving relations and friends of those revolutionary patriots all the information that will tend to a developement of character. Man is the creature of circumstance, and we wish to show the progress of those patriots from their first resistance of colonial aggression, until they stood forth the noble and undaunted champions of their country's independence. All this can only be done by a familiar acquaintance with the lives of these men, and whoever of the surviving friends or relatives will furnish facts and circumstances in their possession to unfold and illustrate their characters, shall be entitled to a copy of the work as a recompense. It is contemplated, wherever it is practicable, further to embellish the meditated work with correct likenesses of the subjects of our biography, executed by the most eminent artists in the country. For this purpose we again solicit the assistance of their surviving relatives and friends. If they will transmit to the publisher any engraving or portrait from which a copy may be taken, the original shall be faithfully returned, and shall likewise be remunerated with a copy of the work. In the first number it is proposed to give an account of the Declaration of Independence, from the first motion that was made on the floor of congress until its final passage into a law, a period embracing much curious and secret history: finally, we promise to add to our last number the Declaration of Independence itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures. We have now compendiously stated the objects of our present undertaking, and we hope that it will be unnecessary to mention that no exertions on our part shall be spared.

The public are now in possession of our project, which does indeed seem to be demanded, by the avidity so recently displayed for the possession of the Declaration of Independence, since it is of very little import to become acquainted with a man's hand writing without a previous knowledge of the man. The secret history of our Declaration of Independence, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to that instrument, accompanied by their likenesses, and finally the Declaration itself with facsimiles of the signatures, will bring into one compact view the prominent facts of that interesting crisis.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers, or half volumes, of 150 pages octavo, and will be contained in ten numbers.

II. It will be printed on fine paper made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per half volume or number, payable on delivery.

☞ Subscriptions will be received at the office of the Alexandria Gazette.
